

BRIDES

The 6 Coolest Downtown LA Wedding Venues

July 19, 2018
Kathryn Romeyn

Los Angeles would seem to have nearly endless wedding venues, and it does, which is enough to overwhelm any couple who doesn't relish the thought of spending an entire year touring sites. But for those who know a beachy wedding isn't in the cards, and are looking for something a bit urban or architectural, though still with epic views, Downtown LA is a place well worth checking out. This is especially because the openings of a few design-forward hotels and spaces means there are seriously photogenic options these days. Here, a handful of the coolest new Downtown LA wedding venues to say "I do."

Hotel Figueroa

After a total multi-year restoration and redesign, this iconic historical landmark is back in business as one of the most magical settings for any couple to become husband and wife. The 1920s Spanish Colonial hotel is romantic and adaptable. Acclaimed chef Casey Lane and mixology mastermind Dushan Zaric have curated six restaurant and bar concepts at the property, meaning you can rest assured everything you and your guests taste will blow you away. For super intimate gatherings perhaps before the main event there is a mirrored private dining space behind a "disappearing" bookcase in one signature suite, and a range of options for the wedding blowout itself, with plenty of art in between to set the mood. The graffiti mural on the outside of the building provides a great backdrop for newlywed photos, too.