Sizzling Spots for Summer Cocktails in Los Angeles

July 30, 2018
Fiona Chandra

It may have been warm in Los Angeles for a while now, but the new season calls for different produce, new cocktails, and a slew of bar and restaurant openings around the city. It is also the season to hit up the poolside and rooftop bars, or perhaps cool down from the heat in a basement speakeasy. To help you take advantage of the season, we have rounded up ten spots where you should be drinking summer cocktails in Los Angeles.

Rick's

There are several restaurants and bars at the new Hotel Figueroa to check out, but the poolside al fresco Rick's is the bar for the summer. The cocktails come by way of beverage director Michael Lay (formerly of Broken Spanish) and Dushan Zaric (Employees Only). Explore the two-story bar while sipping tropical cocktails such as Mai Tai '44 or Joe's Mojo (rum, lime, mint, tamarind).
